Hot reads, cold nights

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

With frigid temperatures not going away, the Grant County Public Library wants patrons to pick up some Hot Reads for Cold Nights.

The fifth annual winter reading program began Jan. 12 and runs through Feb. 20.

The six-week program, which usually has about 75 participants, is a chance to catch up on some reading and win prizes.

"Libraries always push reading during the summer, especially for kids who are out of school," said Wynita Worley, public services librarian. "But winter is a fabulous time for reading because it is so cold and we probably aren't taking many trips after the holidays."

Hot Reads for Cold Nights started as an adult program, but the library opened it up to teenagers last year.

The rules are similar to the popular summer reading program.

Patrons read a book, including an e-book or audiobook, they log it either online at www.grantlib.org or fill out a paper log.

WHAT IS IT?

- Reading program that began Jan. 12 and continues through Feb. 20.
- Open to ages 13 and up.
- For more information, call 824-2080.

Each week, the library draws two winners who have turned in their log who can pick from prizes that include a USB device charger, autographed books, I "heart" reading socks, tablet covers, drinkware and more.

In addition, participants who log two books will get a coupon for a free coffee from Beans in Dry Ridge, while supplies last.

Participants who read and log five books before the end of the program get entered in a drawing for a Coleman dual hot/cold food case.

Anyone Grant County resident or Grant County Public Library cardholder can sign up and participate.

Hot Reads for Cold Nights is open to ages 13 and up. Those who want to sign up online can at www.grantlib.org by clicking on the Winter Reading page.

"If you don't want to participate online, you can come into the library and pick up paper reading logs," Worley said. "You can sign up anytime during the six-week period."

For more information, call the library at 824-2080.

FIRE!

Grease, wiring blamed in separate blazes

Two Grant County families had to find other accommodations after their homes were heavily damaged in separate fires.

Nathan Yazell was cooking hamburgers and French fries around 6 a.m. on Jan. 19 after getting off work at Toyota when grease caught his tri-level home on fire.

When firefighters arrived around 6:20 a.m. smoke and fire were billowing out the windows.

"There was not a whole lot we could save when we got there," Williamstown Fire Chief Les Whalen said.

Yazell lived at the home on Stone School House Road with two roommates.

All three were able to evacuate the home and were not injured.

The Grant County Chapter of the American Red Cross assisted them with two nights lodging at Microtel in Dry Ridge as well as with food and clothing.

Firefighters from Corinth and Dry Ridge also responded and stayed on scene for two and a half hours.

A Jonesville family was displaced from their rental home on Jan. 14.

Faulty wiring was the cause of heavy smoke and fire damage to a home at 4330 Stewart's Ridge.

Jonesville Volunteer Fire Chief Chase Duvall said the faulty wire was found on an exhaust stand that caught the floor on fire behind a wood stove located in the kitchen of the home.

DR man remains identified

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

What appeared to be a near certainty after a body was found in a shallow grave in Fleming County three months ago became reality for the family of Randall Russ.

Using dental records, the Fleming County coroner has confirmed that the buried body discovered is the 54-year-old Dry Ridge man.

"This is all bittersweet," Kate Russ, Randall Russ' eldest daughter, wrote to followers on Facebook. "I'm so happy that (my sister) Erin Russ and I have some answers, but at the same time this makes everything real. Everything is set in stone, and we know now that he won't be coming back home. Thank you to everyone who has helped my family through this hard time with your prayers and kind words."

> "This is all bittersweet. . . we know now that he won't be coming back home."

Indications have always been that the body would eventually be identified as Russ, however, Kentucky State Police said they were awaiting DNA results before positively identifying the remains.

The Express will continue to be delivered in homes and mailboxes by Monday.

"We hope this is not inconvenient for our advertisers or readers, but it could not be helped," Jamie S. Baker, editor of the Express said.

Representatives from 26 law enforcement agencies, including the Grant County Sheriff's Office, attend a press conference in Frankfort introducing the Bluegrass and Central Kentucky Unified Police Protection System (BACKUPPS.) Photo provided

Sheriff's office teams up for BACKUPPS

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

No new deputies were added, but the Grant County Sheriff's Office now have BACKUPPS if needed.

The sheriff's office, along with law enforcement agencies in 25 other counties and cities, have created a central Kentucky regional cooperative law enforcement system that provides inter-jurisdictional powers to law enforcement officers.

The inter-local agreement creates the Bluegrass and Central Kentucky Unified Police Protection System (BACKUPPS) authorizing members to have the full powers of arrest and all powers they possess in their own jurisdiction, along with the same immunities and privileges.

The powers include conducting investigations and searches, making arrests, property seizures, carrying firearms, executing search and arrest warrants and delivering subpoenas and summonses.

"The bad guys don't have boundaries," said Grant County Sheriff Chuck Dills. "We run across that all the time where someone is living in Scott County and doing break-ins in Grant County. It is difficult for us to follow up on investigations in other counties.

The counties of Grant, Bourbon, Boyle, Clark, Franklin, Mercer, Montgomery, Owen, Powell, Scott and Woodford, along with the cities of Clay City, Cynthiana, Danville, Frankfort, Georgetown, Harrodsburg, Lancaster, Mt. Sterling, Nicholasville, Owenton, Paris, Stanton, Versailles and Winchester, are part of BACKUPPS.

The purpose of the system is not for deputies to be patrolling other counties, said Dills.

"The main reason BACKUPPS was put in place for central Kentucky is so we can work joint task force with each other," Dills said. "With the meth and heroin problem, we can put deputies and officers from other agencies all on a team to work in a multiple-county jurisdiction. By doing that, we can all train the same. We can use unfamiliar faces to help buy drugs in our county. Obviously, it will lower the crime rate."

Under the agreement, a member agency entering another jurisdiction is to notify the host jurisdiction in advance if possible or as soon as possible.

If needed, the agreement allows for inter-jurisdictional cooperation and mutual aid when assisting with investigations, searches, arrests or other activities.

The agreement does not provide for funding, meaning each member agency is responsible for any financial costs.

"There's really nothing negative about it," Dills said. "Liability-wise, it goes with the agency not what county they are in."

Dills said he was contacted by the Scott County Sheriff's Office about the agreement, which is similar to one Grant County already has in northern Kentucky with Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Gallatin and Pendleton counties.

The hope is to get legislation passed where any certified peace officer in Kentucky would have statewide jurisdiction, said Dills.

"Our deputies are transporting prisoners on the highways through these other counties and it's not uncommon for them to get behind a reckless driver or a DUI and they need jurisdiction to make a stop," Dills said.

New agencies may join the agreement in the future.

Whaley hired as Dry Ridge city attorney

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

The Dry Ridge City Council selected a new city attorney during its first meeting of the new year.

Williamstown attorney Pete Whaley was unanimously approved for the position during the Jan. 5 meeting.

Whaley replaces attorney Mike Mulvey, who new Dry Ridge Mayor Jim Wells said tendered his resignation last week.

Whaley also serves as the attorney for Corinth.

Whaley's contract is for the rest of the fiscal year, ending June 30, with the council having the option of renewing his services or hiring a new attorney.

Wells said there were two other local attorneys who expressed interest in the position, Stephen Bates II and Jeff Shipp.

Pete Whaley

Wells said Shipp was not considered because he believed it could be a conflict with his current position as city attorney for Williamstown.

"I appreciate the opportunity to get to work with you guys," Whaley said to the council after the vote. "I feel like it will be a good six months and hopefully when it gets to July you'll be inclined to extend."

Authors show others how to 'go to press'

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

Have you ever wanted to publish your own book?

The Grant County Public Library will host several self-published authors who will share stories and give tips to those interested in how to "Go to Press."

The event will be at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 1 as the authors discuss the benefits of hiring an editor, how to get the most from a publishing contract and personal stories of writing motivation.

"We have so many local and regional authors who have decided to be independent authors that I thought that would be a new twist on an author visit," said Wynita Worley, public services librarian for the Grant County Public Library. "Our panel of authors can dish on their tips and experiences and talk about their books at the same time. It's going to be a great event whether you are interested in publishing your own material or just want to meet some new and up-and-coming authors."

The authors scheduled to be in attendance include Tonya Kappes, M. A. Lewis, Jeanine Lister, T R Lykins and Toshia Slade.

Worley said the library tried to find authors who represent a wide range of genres.

"Tonya Kappes, who lives in Northern Kentucky, writes southern mysteries set in Kentucky," Worley said. "Kappes has also just been signed to a traditional publisher too. T R Lykins writes gentle romances while Toshia Slade, relative to a Grant County resident, writes hot and steamy romance books. Michael Lewis, our only male author on the panel and a longtime Grant County library supporter, is representing his science fiction novel. Jeanine Lister lives in Corinth and recently published a non-fiction journal about adopting a pit bull from an animal shelter."

The library has copies of each of the participating authors' books plus more from self-published authors.

The staff also will be creating a new collection just for self-published books from local and regional authors.

"Self-publishing had such a bad reputation even just a few years ago," Worley said. "I think this program will reveal how the publishing industry has grown and that there is quality material to be found in self-publishing. I think you'll get lots of practical information on approaching writing as a business and maybe get the courage to get started sharing your writing."

The authors will have copies of their books on hand to sign and sell.

Soup and snacks also will be served as well.

The library is asking patrons who would like to attend the Go to Press event to register online at www.grantlib.org or by calling 824-2080.

In case of inclement weather, Sunday, Feb. 22 is planned as a backup date.

Registrants will be notified if the event's date is moved.

BODY

Russ, who was an adjunct professor at the University of Cincinnati and was previously a substitute teacher at Grant County High School, had been missing for nearly two months.

Two men have been arrested in connection with Russ' death.

Charles Black, 50, of Hillsboro, and Kevin Howard, 38, of Owingsville, plead not guilty Dec. 5 in Fleming County Circuit Court on charges of murder, theft by unlawful taking, first-degree robbery, kidnapping and tampering with physical evidence.

Howard also is charged with being a persistent felony offender.

Black, who led police to the buried body, allegedly told authorities that he helped move the body after Howard killed Russ.

The cause of death was strangulation and blunt force trauma, according to court testimony.

KSP Detective Wes Prather said during a pretrial hearing in October 2014 that a witness told police that the motive for the killing was robbery.

The detective told the court that police turned their attention to Black after a video was found of Black using Russ' credit card at an ATM.

Kate Russ said her father's body has been released and she has signed the papers for cremation.

Funeral service plans are still in the works.

"We are hoping that we can have it the first week of February," Kate Russ said. "We just want to make sure it's perfect."

A website has been created to help offset funeral expenses.

Anyone who would like to donate to the cause can go to www.gofundme.com/i3swvo.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Express deadlines are changing

Jamie S. BAKER

Editor

In the fast-paced world we live in, change is inevitable.

The community newspaper business is no exception and that's why we are making a change to the deadlines for the Grant County Express.

Effective, this week, the advertising and editorial deadline for the Express will be 3 p.m. on Wednesday, instead of Thursday.

This change is necessary due to a change in the way the Express will be handled by the post office in Cynthiana. Why Cynthiana you may be asking?

The Grant County News and Express are printed at our sister newspaper, the Cynthiana Democrat. Due to many (and we are told more to come) changes with the postal service, our newspapers are processed for mailing from Cynthiana before they are returned to the News office for either delivery by carriers to our local stores or delivered to the post offices in Grant County.

The post office in Cynthiana has changed the way it will be handling the newspapers and that is why there is a need for the change in deadlines.

While the deadline change may not impact many, it is one that is necessary to meet our printing schedule and then ultimately our delivery schedule.

We apologize for any inconvenience and hope that the change is so smooth that our loyal readers and advertisers won't even notice.

Having spent the last 26 years working here at the Grant County News, I never get tired of hearing from our readers.

Recently, I've been accused of throwing letters to the editor in the trash if I don't agree with them and I want to assure our readers that is not true.

I'm proud to say that we publish 99 percent of all items that we receive from the public. Typically, the only exceptions are if we receive something that is libelous, meaning the author or the newspaper could be sued for publishing the information, then we will not publish it.

If I believe a submitted item could be libelous, I follow a few steps including consultation with the executive editor of Landmark Communications, which is our parent company, and then follow up with our legal counsel if necessary.

It is interesting to me what the public thinks about libelous content. I've received letters to the editor before calling out local businesses for being shady or even calling out neighbors or family members because the author was upset with them for various reasons. These types of letters we generally do not publish because the newspaper isn't the forum to air personal dirty laundry.

When I receive a phone call asking if I'll publish something, my response is typically that I would want to read the item before I say yes or no to publishing it.

The letters or submissions that we determine cannot be published do not go in the trash but in a file folder that I keep. I've been known to actually go back and re-read some of them from time to time.

I hope this will encourage our readers to submit letters to the editor on local issues or items of interest.

Letters should be kept to 250 words or less. Letters that are longer than 250 words are considered a guest column. Letters can be sent by email to gcneditorial@grantky.com or mailed to P.O. Box 247, Williamstown, Ky. 41097 or faxed to 859-824-5888.

Letters must include the writer's name, address and phone number. Phone numbers are not published in the newspaper, but are for verification purposes only.

I care about what the community cares about. I'm interested in what people think – be it good, bad or indifferent.

That is why we have a page dedicated to the opinions of our staff and community.

In the Grant County News, our opinion page is called the Viewpoint Page, nearly every week page 4.

The items found on this page are neither right nor wrong, but simply the way we, as a newspaper staff or the public see an issue or situation.

Our opinion page features a staff written column, which is called Personally Speaking, as well as guest columns or letters to the editor when we have them.

In an effort to expand the opinions featured on this page, we are are looking for others in the community who would like to share their thoughts on community events, people, politics, schools, etc.

If you'd like to know more about becoming a guest columnist or submitting a letter to the editor, then please email me at jbakernantz@grantky.com or call me at 859-824-3343.

Homeowners beware of scam

Jack Conway

Attorney General's Office

Attorney Jack Conway, the Kentucky Real Estate Commission and the Kentucky County Clerks Association are joining together to warn recent Kentucky homebuyers to be vigilant of official-looking mailing being sent by "Record Transfer Services" that attempt to sell homebuyers copies of their property deeds for an excessive fee.

"These direct-mail solicitations ask homebuyer to pay an $83 document fee to obtain copies of their current deeds," Attorney General Conway said. "These mailings are confusing and misleading and I want consumers to know that the service isn't necessary. You do not need to pay exorbitant fees for a copy of your deed. Property transfers and other public records are readily available at your county clerk's office for a nominal fee.

It's important for recent homebuyers to be aware of these mailings so that they can quickly identify and disregard them."

The mailing, which is titles as a "Recorded Deed Notice," attempts to look official. The envelope includes the labels "Open Immediately" and "WARNING: $2,000 fine, 5 years imprisonment or both for any person interfering with or obstructing with the delivery of this letter."

Inside the envelope, the mailing contains a number of accurate details regarding the recent home purchase, including sale price of the home, recording date, construction date and the square footage of the home. The mailing could also easily be confused as a bill. It includes a respond-by date and a detachable insert to return a check.

In addition to Kentucky, Record Transfer Services has mailed these solicitations to homeowners in several other states. The return address for Record Transfer Services is listed at 3835 E. Thousand Oaks Blvd., Suite 78, Westlake Village, CA 91362.

Anyone who receives this Record Transfer Services mailing or any direct-mail solicitation that they believe to be deceptive or fraudulent may alert Attorney General Conway's Office of Consumer Protection at 1-888-432-9257.

You can follow Attorney General Conway of Twitter @kyoag, visit the Attorney General's Facebook page or view vidoes on our YouTube channel.

How can I submit a letter to the editor?

Letters to the editor can be handwritten, typed or in e-mail form. Letters should be 300 words or less. Letters to the editor must contain the writer's name, address and phone number. Just one letter per month is allowed per writer, unless it is a response to a previous letter. Send letters to: gcneditorial@grantky.com or to P.O. Box 247, Williamstown, Ky. 41097 or drop off at 129 S. Main, Suite B in Dry Ridge.

Letters with libelous content will not be published. Letters are edited for grammar, clarity and length if they are over 300 words.

DOWN AND DIRTY

Some perrenials perform best in winter

The garden is not bare in the winter, far from it. There is plenty of interest to delight the gardener, feed the birds or provide shelter for a slug. Short of having one of those unusual winters where the temperatures drop below zero for more than a week, there are quite a few interesting herbaceous perennials that persist through winter. Design a perennial bed with them in it and you'll always have something to enjoy.

My favorite has to be the hellebore, handsome in the spring, summer, fall and winter, with deeply cut glossy foliage almost all the time. The real treat is in February when clusters of blooms emerge from the ground, along with new foliage. In fact, now is the time to clean some of the old foliage, just before the new emerges.

Hellebores are notorious for mixed genetics so the hybrid hellebores are somewhat of a mixed bag of colors ranging in hues of speckled pink, blush and maroon. They are vigorous plants to be sure; the colors are just a bit unpredictable. Named cultivars can be found but they are typically a bit pricier then the hybrid mixes. Start out with the 'Royal Heritage' strain first and then start collecting the named varieties if you become hooked on this great plant.

Hellebores will thrive under the right culture: rich, well-drained soil, adequate moisture and a little shade in the afternoon. The summer sun is harder on the plant than Jack Frost. With that said, however, they are not fragile plants. Once hellebores are established they are quite tolerant of not so perfect garden environments. They become deep rooted, as well, so once established they will last decades in the garden without much fuss.

Rhodea thrives in woodland conditions, both moist and dry. Known as the sacred lily, rhodea is native to Japan where a division can go for as much as $10,000. The garden variety, however, can be found at specialty garden centers for the average cost of a perennial. The foliage is strap-like and robust, dark green with an overall vase-shape. In the summer a bloom emerges for added interest but it is the foliage that makes this plant worthwhile in the garden. It will even live happily under the dry and toxic shade of a black walnut, or so I have heard.

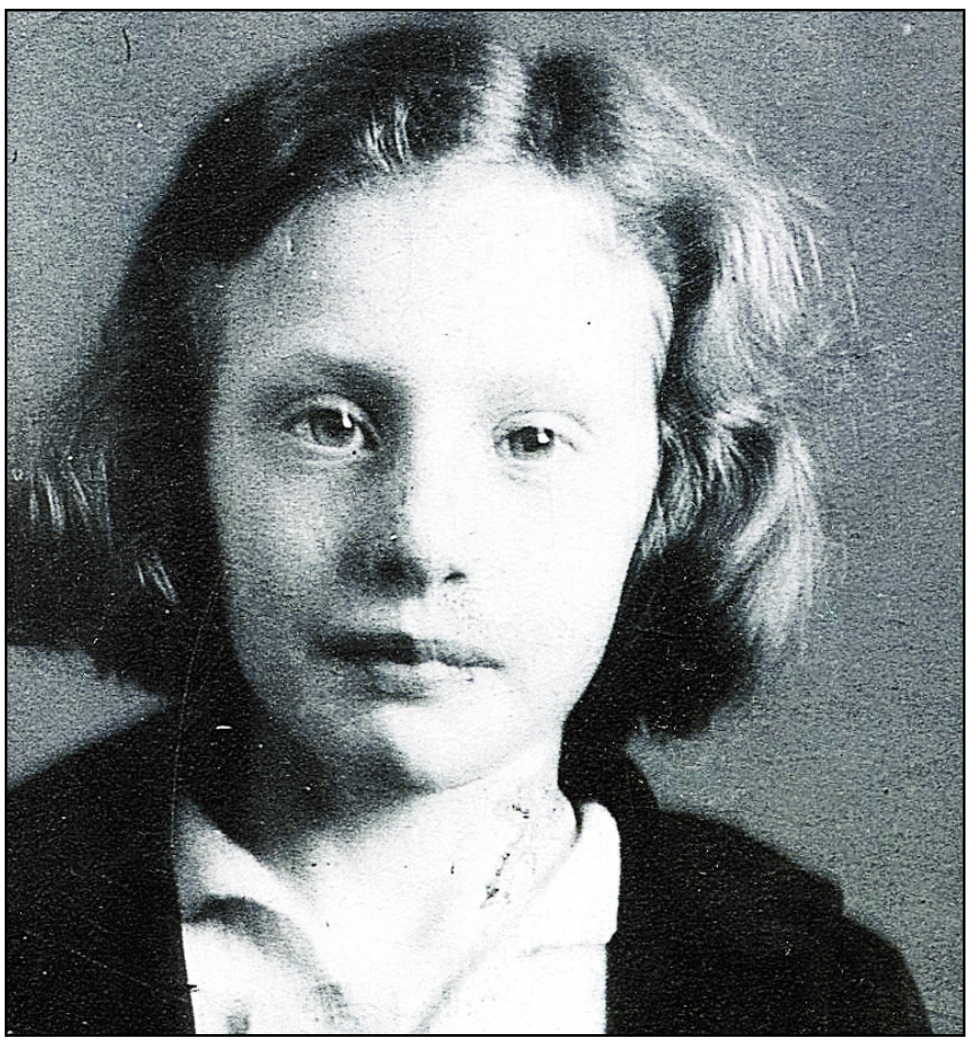

Rhodea may be under-used in the garden because it is often listed as a tender perennial in zone six; it has been my experience, as well as others in our zone, that the plant has no problem persisting through winter. Last year's "polar vortex" was a little hard on the foliage but the plant is root hardy and rebounded just fine.

The arum is another reliable winter foliage plant. When everything else in the mixed border is either gone or leafless, the arum fills the space like the best ground cover around. Arrowhead-shaped leaves with veining that provides subtle color variations can fill in any space: wet, dry, part shade or full-sun. Like the rhodea, the arums are not too terribly picky and they can handle the least desirable location in the garden. Mix it with summer foliage plants because after the plant blooms in May or June the foliage disappears for its summer dormant season. The bloom spike that remains, however, provides more interest as the seeds ripen to a red-orange color.

Although the hellebores, rhodea and arum are my favorites there are other plants that hang on through a typical winter: the Christmas fern, Stoke's aster, and certain species of hardy geranium, euphorbia and epimedium, among others.

FAITH & VALUES

VERSE OF THE WEEK:

"And Jesus said unto them, "Because of your unbelief; for verily I say unto you, if ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, 'Remove hence to yonder place,' and it shall remove. And nothing shall be impossible unto you."

Matthew 17:20 (KJV)

GRACE NOTES

Why do we pray?

Nancy
KENNEDY

Grace Notes

According to a recent LifeWay Research survey, when God answers prayer, he tends to do it in the South.

Two times as many Southerners as people in the Northeast who pray say all of their prayers have been answered.

Hmmm. I live in the South and I'm here to tell you that the survey is hooey, at least if you judge by my "God answers my prayers" track record.

I told my pastor recently that except for the time I prayed a plane safely down, my ratio of prayers prayed and answered, at least the way I want them to be answered, is about 1 billion to zero.

The plane had taken off from somewhere and was heading to the U.S. After takeoff, the pilot discovered the landing gear wasn't working properly and prepared the passengers and crew for a "rough" landing. I had heard about it on the news and prayed fervently for a safe landing — and that's what happened. I still attribute it directly to my prayer.

However, that was more than 10 years ago and God hasn't answered one of my prayers since.

Well, I know that's not true, but sometimes — a lot of times — that's how I feel. Sometimes what you know is different from what you feel, and you should never go by what you feel.

Sometimes I feel like eating an entire carton of ice cream, even though I know it will give me a bellyache.

I have a friend who has a friend who seems to get all her prayers answered. (My friend's friend is a Southerner.) I told my friend to see if she could get her friend's secret.

Like, maybe it only works for people who were born in the South.

I don't know how it works.

Maybe I'm missing something. Other than to take time out for snacks, sleep and a "Law and Order: SVU" marathon, many times I've prayed without ceasing (1 Thessalonians 5:17).

I've prayed "in Jesus' name" (John 14:13-14) and have prayed in faith (Matthew 21:22). No, scratch that one. My faith couldn't move a grain of sand, let alone a mountain (Matthew 17:20), even though Jesus said mustard seed-size faith could.

I'm not saying that can't happen, just that I haven't seen any mountains move as a result of my prayers.

Jesus said, "Ask, and you shall receive," and I've asked until I'm blue in the face, but so far that hasn't worked for me, either.

That's how I feel, anyway.

My friend with the friend who prays has another friend who was big into the "Prayer of Jabez" thing from 2000. Author Bruce Wilkinson based his best-selling book of that title on an obscure one-sentence Old Testament prayer, a prayer of a man named Jabez: "Oh, that you (God) would bless me indeed, and enlarge my territory, that your hand would be with me, and that you would keep me from evil, that I may not cause pain." And God granted him what he requested (1 Chronicles 4:10).

My friend's friend has had a seemingly charmed life and attributes it to having prayed that prayer.

My friend and I lament not having gotten on the Jabez bandwagon way back when, but not really, because my friend's Jabez-prayer-praying friend's life is kind of a mess right now.

So, either the prayer has a limited warranty or it was only a gimmick to begin with — not Mr. Jabez's original prayer eons ago, but the thinking that his prayer could be used as a sure-fire formula for others to follow.

When it comes to prayer, it makes my head hurt to think about it.

All I know for certain is that God's going to do what he's going to do, and he doesn't need my prayers to do it. My words aren't going to change his mind at all. If they could, then I would be greater than God.

So, why pray at all? That's a good question and one that I come back to repeatedly.

I guess the simple answer to the question "Why pray?" is that God wants to hear from his kids, as any father does. He wants our relationship. He wants our words — our prayers — and not just the faith-filled, sweet words of love and praises, but the angry and doubt-filled ones.

Maybe especially those.

Braves hold on for 77-75 victory against Pendleton

By Tim Seevers
Sports Correspondent

The Grant County Braves gained a 77-75 victory over the Wildcats from Pendleton County on Jan. 16.

The Braves jumped out to an early lead in the first quarter and maintained a double-digit lead throughout most of the game.

The last two minutes is when the game got exciting as the Wildcats mounted a comeback that fell short.

Grant County controlled the opening tip and quickly jumped out 3-0 when Jordan Saylor hit from the corner.

That was the beginning of 24 first-quarter points scored by the Braves.

Most of the damage was done early by senior Seth Adkins, who was perfect from the field and the line scoring 13 first-quarter points.

Grant County seemed to be getting open shots against the 1-2-2 zone defense of the Wildcats and they capitalized early and often in the first half.

The Braves jumped out to a 15-5 early lead prompting the Wildcats coach to call a time out.

The Wildcats narrowed the lead after two offensive rebounds that were put back for easy scores but then Adkins went to work scoring the last five points of the quarter. The Braves held a 24-14 lead after one and that proved to be important.

Grant County cooled off a bit in the second quarter but was still able to overcome the small runs of the Wildcats.

Everytime Pendleton County would get within five points, the Braves would go on a run of their own by picking up the defensive pressure and causing the Wildcats to turn the ball over.

Both teams exchanged baskets throughout the second quarter and the Braves halftime lead was 37-27.

The Braves shot 66 percent in the first half connecting on 11-15 two point shots and 3-6 from the three point line. They were also 8-11 from the free throw line.

The third quarter opened up with a bang.

Austin Schneider stole a pass and went end to end to slam home a dunk.

The third quarter was much like the second with each team exchanging baskets. The Braves pushed their lead to 17 but the Wildcats just wouldn't go away.

They applied defensive pressure of their own and began chipping away at the lead.

But the Braves answered once again and after Zach Tuggle hit a layup with six seconds left the Braves would once again lead by 56-45 heading into the fourth quarter.

The Wildcats weren't ready to roll over just yet.

They trailed by 13 with just five minutes left to play but Hunter Lea and Michael Antrobus became a two-man wrecking crew.

Lea would drive the lane for easy scores and would often draw the foul. He finished a perfect 11-11 from the line.

Antrobus began hitting long bombs behind the arc and within the last minute they had cut the lead to single digits.

After the Braves missed 5-6 from the line, the game became a lot closer than anyone had expected.

Jordan Saylor was fouled late and connected on both free throws to ice the game. The Braves were led in scoring by Seth Adkins with 30 and Jordan Saylor with 28 and eight rebounds.

Jordan Rose led the team in rebounding and assists with 10 boards and nine assists.

The Wildcats were led by Hunter Lea with 21, Michael Antrobus with 15 and Wade Browning with 13.

The JV contest was won by the Braves 70-54.

The JV Braves were led in scoring by Joey Saylor's 32 points.

Bo Hammonds and Zach Tuggle chipped in with 13 and 10 points each.

Noah Abney led the Wildcats with 18, Wade Browning with 14 and Tanner Pugh with 9.

GCHS honors 1953-54 basketball team, cheerleaders

By Tim Seevers
Sports Correspondent

The Bible book of Romans says, "Give everyone what you owe him: if respect, then respect; if honor, then honor" (Romans 13:7).

There was a lot of respect and honor shown Jan. 16 to the 1953-54 men and women who were the first to play and cheer for Grant County High School 60 years ago.

Players came together from their former schools of Corinth, Mason, Dry Ridge and Crittenden to form the new basketball team of Grant County High School.

The first Braves team was successful on and off the court.

Mason served as the new high school until the new one was built. The building is now the Grant County Middle School.

The team would practice at the Mason gym and then play their home games at the old Dry Ridge gymnasium.

The first Braves squad, under the leadership of Coach Eugene Robinson, had a record of 17-11. They played against such schools as Butler, Burlington, Cynthiana, Morgan, Falmouth, Florence, Owenton, Gallatin County and Sadieville. They also played cross-county rival Williamstown three times that first year, pointing out that they won all three times.

Honored were Donnie Brown, Willie Lawrence, Richard "Dickie" Longbons, John Smith and Jack Wilson.

Each had stories to tell.

The three-point shot has been the biggest difference in the game from their playing days, on this point they agreed. Donald Brown said that you couldn't have shot a three pointer in the Mason gym.

If you shot a long shot it would hit the ceiling before it reached the rim.

They also said that doing away with the jump ball on every held ball situation was a big change to the game.

Richard Longbons shared the story of playing a game at Morgan in Pendleton County where it was so cold that both teams had to play the game in their warm-ups.

He went on to say that some gyms had pot bellied stoves at each end of the gym that were red hot.

Willie Lawrence remembers a game when he was dribbling the ball out front while the clock was running down.

The scoreboard showed that the game was tied.

The fans and coaches were yelling at him to run a play or shoot the ball but the clock ran out.

When coach questioned him about why he didn't shoot he said "we won the game." The coach said, "Didn't you see the clock? The score is tied."

But Willie insisted that Grant County had won the game.

He said, "Check the book."

When the book was checked it was a Grant County victory by one point.

Willie had kept the score in his head. It's no wonder he spent 47 years working as a banker at Eagle Bank checking the books.

John Smith shared his fondest moment.

It was the first time he played against Williamstown.

He came off the bench in that game to score 31 points in the 65-60 victory.

Smith said after the game a fan gave him a $5 bill, a lot of money in that day.

He said he thought the fans might have had a few drinks, but he kept the five anyway.

Jack Wilson also shared about his fondest moment.

It was also about beating Williamstown, even then a big rival.

It was a close game at Williamstown and Wilson scored the last two points of the game.

Three cheerleaders also were introduced and honored as well.

Helen Catlett Brown, Betty Burgess Marshall and Ramona Souder Peddicord were recognized along with the players during a pre-game presentation.

Peddicord shared that her favorite memory is the smooth transition of the cheerleaders from the four county schools.

They came together into one unit and along the way became best friends.

One cheerleader was selected from each of the schools when they formed the new school.

Betty Burgess Marshall was from Dry Ridge, Reva Rider was from Corinth, Helen Catlett from Crittenden and Utha Simpson was from Mason.

Ramona Souder was the one cheerleader selected by the whole student body representing the new high school.

The three cheerleaders and five basketball players sat beneath the basket prior to the varsity game.

As they were introduced, the crowd applauded not only their accomplishments of 60 years ago but also in recognition of whom they have become and how they have honored one another.

At the conclusion of the introductions, everyone was on their feet for a standing ovation.

The current players, cheerleaders and coaches passed by each one to shake the hands of those who paved the way for them.

Kellam honored with banner

By Tim Seevers
Sports Correspondent

Grant County High School golfer Cody Kellam was honored at halftime of the Jan. 16 boy's basketball game.

Kellam, a senior player on the Braves basketball team, was honored for his success on the golf course.

The golf program at Grant County High School has a storied past of successful teams and individual players.

A banner will hang in the school's gymnasium, along with the other GCHS athletes who have been successful.

During the 2014 season, Kellam won the Mason County Invitational that included a three-hole sudden death playoff.

He followed that up by also winning the Beechwood Tiger Invitational the next day. The team also won that day in yet another playoff where Kellam led the team by eagling the first playoff hole.

He capped off a successful season by shooting a 72 in the regional tournament and finished tied for third place, allowing him to qualify for the state tournament for the second time in his career as an individual.

At the state tournament, Kellam shot a 74 and 73 to finish tied for 10th individually. He was also the recipient of the Leachmann Buick-Cadillac-GMC Award for Academic Excellence.

Kellam's accomplishments also include the 2014 Kentucky Golf Association All-Region team and the 2014 All-State Second Team.

Kellam will be playing golf at Morehead State University next year.

He is the son of Tim and Jamie Kellam.

Woes continue for Lady Braves

By Bryan Harmeyer
Sports Correspondent

The slump continued for the Grant County Lady Braves this past week as they dropped a pair of games.

In both cases, the team had a lead and let it slip away.

The Lady Braves traveled to Paris Jan. 12 to play the Bourbon County Lady Colonels.

The game was close all the way through with the lead changing hands multiple times.

Rebounds were the determining factor in the game, as the Lady Colonels pulled down 37 to the Braves 23. This allowed the Colonels to have more second and third chance points.

The bright spot of the game was that the Lady Braves didn't give up and battled to the bitter end, losing the game 59-45.

Grant County was led in scoring by Macy Wright with 15 points, followed by Madisyn Ruebusch with eight, Destiny Chaidez and Tyrsten Cummins with six points each, Shelby Harmeyer and Abby West with three points each and Jordan Allen and Shania Young with two points each.

Lady Cougars 44
Lady Braves 36

The Lady Braves dropped their season-high sixth straight game Jan. 14 on the road in Hebron against the Conner Lady Cougars.

An all-too familiar scenario played itself out in the game, which was the inability of the Lady Braves to finish a game where they had a lead at the end of a game. Capitalizing on cold shooting by the Cougars, the Lady Braves jumped out to an early 8-1 lead.

The Cougars hit a three-pointer at the end of the first quarter to cut the lead to 8-4. Both teams struggled offensively and also with protecting the ball, suffering multiple turnovers throughout the game.

However, the Lady Braves managed to hang onto the lead going into the half.

In the second half, the ball handling woes continued for the Lady Braves committing too many forced and unforced turnovers to count, and allowing Conner to stay in the game.

The Lady Cougars tied and then took the lead midway through the fourth quarter. The loss dropped the Lady Braves to 5-11 for the season and 0-4 against the 9th region this year.

The Lady Braves were led in scoring by Harmeyer with 11 points, EJ Kearns with nine, Ruebusch with eight, Wright with four, Sydney Jones with three and Allen with two.

The Lady Braves will look to return to the win column Jan. 22 when they host Oldham County at 7:30 p.m.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

To the City Council
City of Dry Ridge, KY

Report on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying financial statements of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, and each major fund, of the City of Dry Ridge KY as of and for the year ended June 30, 2014, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise the City's basic financial statements as listed in the table of contents.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditor's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to express opinions on these financial statements based on our audit. We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement.

An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal control relevant to the entity's preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Opinions

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the respective financial position of the governmental activities, the business-type activities, the aggregate discretely presented component units, each major fund, and the aggregate remaining fund information of the City of Dry Ridge, KY, as of June 30, 2014, and the respective changes in financial position, and, where applicable, cash flows thereof for the year then ended in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

Other Matters

Required Supplementary Information

Accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America require that the management's discussion and analysis and budgetary comparison information on pages 2-10 and 31-32 be presented to supplement the basic financial statements. Such information, although not a part of the basic financial statements, is required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board, who considers it to be an essential part of financial reporting for placing the basic financial statements in an appropriate operational, economic, or historical context. We have applied certain limited procedures to the required supplementary information in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, which consisted of inquiries of management about the methods of preparing the information and comparing the information for consistency with management's responses to our inquiries, the basic financial statements, and other knowledge we obtained during our audit of the basic financial statements. We do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on the information because the limited procedures do not provide us with sufficient evidence to express an opinion or provide any assurance.

Other Reporting Required by Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated December 31, 2014, on our consideration of the City of Dry Ridge, KY's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering City of Dry Ridge, KY's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

Firefighters from Corinth, Williamstown and Dry Ridge battled a blaze on Stone School House Road on Jan. 19. The home was a total loss. Photo submitted.

"The structure wasn't a total loss," Duvall said. "It just did a lot of heat and smoke damage to the kitchen. That was the main room that suffered the most damage."

The fire took place around 2:15 p.m. No one was home at the time of the fire and no injuries were reported. The home is owned by Joe and Molly McComas, but was being rented to Daniel Gay, Duvall said.

The Jonesville Volunteer Fire Department was assisted by the Owenton/Owen County, New Liberty, Corinth and Dry Ridge departments. The Monterey Fire Department was on standby.

WARM HEARTS

GLOVES, COATS, CAPS & SCARVES FOR KIDS

WARM HEARTS

In November 2013, we asked our customers and the general public to donate new gloves for children in need during our Warm Hands – Warm Hearts inaugural glove drive. In 2014, we expanded to include hats, coats and scarves. Donation centers were set up at all Forcht banking center locations. In six weeks the final total collected was staggering: 1,930 pairs of gloves; 2,342 hats; 477 scarves and 260 coats. In addition, Forcht Bank also donated $5,600 to purchase additional gloves and coats.

All collected clothing items were then delivered to a dozen School Resource Centers and other local charities for distribution to children in need.

A TRUE COMMUNITY BANK

Forcht Bank is a Kentucky-owned community bank with approximately $1 billion in assets and 30 banking centers in 12 counties. We're continually striving to "exceed customer expectations" and to provide unique financial products and services for the citizens in our communities. As we move forward into the future, we will continue to give back to the communities we serve.
